

Mandel lauded for independence

Highland Park/ Highland Park is a community of people who are noted for their independence. We are fortunate to have a City Council member who reflects this value — Steve Mandel.

Steve has taken a stand against several ideas at City Hall when others wouldn't or couldn't. Whether halting an unfair real estate transfer tax that would have penalized homeowners, or making developers pay impact fees for our schools and keeping our property taxes down, Steve has always fought for what is right for the people of Highland Park.

I encourage everyone to vote for Steve Mandel on April 5 to keep his independent voice on the City Council.
